Toronto Tree Portraits 2005 Calendar – Order Your Copy Today

Internationally renowned photographer Geoffrey James has collaborated with writer Pleasance Crawford, to produce Toronto Tree Portraits, a 2005 calendar that celebrates the importance and uniqueness of our tree heritage with a selection of tree portraits of some of Toronto's most remarkable trees.

Toronto has been known as a City of Trees and the annotated tree portraits not only provide a unique and innovative perspective on Toronto's past, they also serve as a key to the future. The proceeds from sale of the Toronto Tree Portraits calendars will go directly to the Toronto Parks and Trees Foundation, a charitable non-profit organization that was founded in 2002 in response to a growing concern about the state of parks and trees in Toronto.

The White Oak in High Park, White Elm at the CNE, Weeping Willow at the Ashbridge Estate and the London Plane in Queen's Park are a few of the trees that are featured in the Toronto Tree Portraits Calendar. The Calendar is reasonably priced at $15.00 and is available by calling the Toronto Parks and Trees Foundation at 416- 397-5178.

The Toronto Parks and Trees Foundation works in partnership with Toronto Parks and Recreation to enhance, create and restore Toronto's parks and trees for our enjoyment and the enjoyment of future generations.
